

Katelyn Harris is a stay-at-home mom of 3 boys (soon to be 4 boys) Evan (7), Nolan (5), and Jude (2) and is married to Todd Harris. When Katie is not tending to her growing family, she spends much of her time active in various ministries. She and Todd are members of St. Margaret Mary Catholic Community. Katie is a lifelong Catholic, a graduate of Assumption High School and Bellarmine University (both undergraduate and graduate degrees). Before starting a family Katie worked in the Energy Industry in a Sales position. Katie is also a talented baker who makes specialty cakes when her busy schedule allows.

Katie is passionate about marriage and strengthening the family, this is evident in the ministries in which she currently serves. She and Todd present weekend retreats for Louisville Catholic Engaged Encounter marriage prep through the archdiocese, and Couple-to-Couple marriage preparation at St. Margaret Mary. They are passionate about this ministry and sharing their love and faith with couples who are entering into marriage in the Catholic Church. Together they have also began a parenting study at St. Margaret Mary based on the Growing Kids God's Way program offered through Growing Families International. They both feel a deep calling to share this content and message with other parents positively impacting many families in their community. Katie has also introduced an exciting Sunday School curriculum at St Margaret Mary for children ages 3-5, she also teaches weekly in this children's ministry. Finally, Katie is a seminar facilitator for the Catholic Women's Group, Women of the Well.

Katie enjoys meeting people and understanding their stories. She loves to learn from others about how they place value on their faith and family. She is very excited about the current emphasis on the family and marriage by the catholic church and Pope Francis, and hopes that the areas she has chosen to serve will also impact others in a positive way, sharing the message of true joy that can be obtained through relationships with God, in a marriage, and as a family.
